Benedictine Hospital Graduating Exercises

Dr. John T. Loughran Delivers Eloquent Address at Graduating of Four Nurses From The Benedictine Hospital Training School—Dr. John F. Larkin Outlines Achievements of Benedictine—Student Nurses Present Play-lets.

A large audience, practically filling St. Mary's Hall, witnessed a unique and pleasing program Thursday evening, when four young ladies were graduated from the Benedictine Hospital Training School for Nurses. The part taken by the nurses was quite out of the ordinary; there were telling addresses by Dr. John F. Larkin in presenting the class and by the Rev. Thomas J. Sanderson, C.S.R., who delivered the diplomas in the absence of the Very Rev. Joseph B. Scully who was ill; and an able, practical, essentially human yet scholarly address delivered to the nurses by John T. Loughran, LL.D., professor of law at Fordham University.

The young ladies who graduated were Miss Geraldine S. White, Miss Margaret Mary Buckley, Miss Mary Elizabeth Myers and Miss Marjorie Galvin Manning.

Following the playing of a patriotic and old time melody by the orchestra, the curtain rose upon a very pretty scene. A huge American flag formed the background, while in the foreground sat a student in uniform, wearing the scarlet lined blue cape, at a study table.

Clever Playlet Presented.

There followed an exceptionally clever little playlet, "The Discontented Nurse," in which Miss Buckley as that disgruntled young person complained about nearly everything a nurse has to do. She especially resented having to study the history of nursing, seeing no good in reading all that old stuff. Then her head fell forward upon her book and she slept. As she did so, the figure of Linda Richards (Miss Hurn) one of the earliest nurses, in a rare gown of black grosgrain silk of the Civil War period, appeared and told of the sleeping girl of the hardships of the first nursing days, the deprivations and lack of equipment as compared with the present, and urged the modern nurse to go forth to her duties thankful for her privileges and opportunities to serve suffering humanity as only a nurse today can do. The modern nurse awoke just in time to see Linda Richards stealing off the stage, but she had caught her message and was happily, not discontentedly, ready for whatever duty lay before her.

Other Entertainment Features.

"The Angelus," as given by the student nurses in costume presented a lovely picture. This was followed by an appropriate recitation admirably given by Miss Kathryn Finn.

With a beautiful little shrine set up to the worship of the Virgin Mother in the center of the stage, a group of Socialist girls, part in nurses' uniform, part in flowing draperies, presented "Our Lady of Good Counsel."

While the orchestra played, seats were placed on the stage, and the members of the staff, the clergy and chief speaker took their places on the platform. The ushers formed a body guard near the stage as the graduates, each accompanied by a tiny flower girl in white, carrying a bouquet of roses (Little Jean Larkin, Helen Grogan, Beanie and Madeline Freer) passed through and up onto the stage, where they were presented to the audience and to Father Sanderson and Dr. Loughran, by Dr. J. F. Larkin.

The ushers were Bernard Feeney, Jerome Cashin, Kenneth Roos, Odell Black, Louis R. Netter, Thomas Roach, Albert Katz, Gerald Fitzgerald, William J. Dwyer, William C. Leonard and Raymond McAndrew.

Work of Sisters and Nurses.

In presenting the class, Dr. Larkin said that the young ladies were fortunate indeed in having secured their training under the Benedictine Sisters, for more than fifty per cent of the hospital beds today are under the care of the Sisters. This merited much praise from them as they, in Emmetburg, Maryland, long ago, and back in the Middle Ages nursing was done by the Augustine Monks.

Dr. Larkin also complimented the young ladies on having been connected with the Benedictine Hospital which is associated with the American College of Surgery. He called to mind the splendid volunteer services of Benedictine nurses during the Spanish epidemic in 1904, the equally fine work done when the Tuberculosis Camp was first opened with Miss Anna O'Brien, a Benedictine nurse, as superintendent.

In the World War, where some of the Sisters had made the supreme sacrifice, as an inspiration to the young women about to go out into the field of nursing. At present there are thirty paid nurses at the Benedictine and over a hundred have graduated as nurses from the institution. The different departments of the hospital are completely furnished, making it one of the best and most improved hospitals in the state.

Dr. Larkin again congratulated the graduates upon their right to receive their diplomas.

Diplomas Presented.

The Rev. Thomas J. Sanderson of Mount St. Alphonsus presented the diplomas for Dean Scully and extended to the four nurses Father Scully's as well as his own congratulations, for having completed their three years' course and finished a difficult task. He assured the young ladies that the handing to them of those diplomas was no meaningless gesture, for it represented their credentials from the board of health and the State Department of Education. Father Sanderson assured the young ladies that if they would hold fast to their best personality and character and live up to their religious principles as well as to the principles of their profession, they would surely be a credit to themselves, to the hospital from which they graduated and to their profession.

Prizes at Future Graduations.

Dr. Eastman of the staff made one important announcement. He said that at all future graduations three premiums would be offered: one for the graduate having fewest demerits, given by the Alumni; another to the graduate having the best medical, class-room and practical record, given by a member of the staff; and a third to the graduate having a record for the most perfect cleanliness and care of the sick, donor not mentioned.

Father Sanderson then introduced a man needing no introduction to a Kingston audience, Dr. John T. Loughran.

Dr. Loughran's Address.

Dr. Loughran, in addressing the graduates, the staff and audience said that this is the day of graduates and so would include in the very first of his address those to whom he came to speak particularly, the members of the graduation class; in that same first part of his address, he would also include as most closely related to those graduates, their families and closest friends who by their interest, devotion and self-sacrifice had helped the four nurses through hard work, often discouragements to reach their night of graduation. Moreover Dr. Loughran wished for them that they might be spared to each other for many, many years.

Taking up those days of the "Middle Ages," spoken of by Dr. Larkin, the speaker made very plain to all present that in spite of tradition there was not and never had been any proof that medicine and religion were antagonistic. On the contrary they had cooperated, the practical expression of religion—being one's brother's keeper in time of sickness—supplementing the devotion and skill of the medical profession. That was something for the nurses to remember and live up to, and Dr. Loughran made a strong plea for the nurses to add the sentiment of their womanly sympathy to the science of their profession at all times.

Quoting from Glenn Frank, who had recently paid his tribute to the new medicine, but even better known folks; who was a profound psychoanalyst long before the word had been heard of, and was in himself almost a family confessional and always a devoted friend as well as physician, Dr. Loughran hoped that the graduates would carry over into their work his ideals.

Another task laid upon the nurses by the speaker was that of education especially against superstition, on the part of patients and their families. The time was when the doctor terrified both patient and family by the frightful technical terms that he used and used needlessly so often, for he could have spoken understandingly as has since been learned. Today there is much less of mysticism on the part of the medical profession and this attitude is one for the nurse to pass on, for being in the heart of the home, she has an opportunity not given even to the physician.

In closing Dr. Loughran said:

Drama for Everybody.

Let me make one more suggestion to the members of this class and I have finished. I do not doubt that I have heard more commendation discourses than any other person in this room. I have listened to at least one every year for the past fifteen years. I know well (too well as I sometimes think) that most people who have a hearing upon commencement platforms seem to interpret their function as requiring them to state some field philosophy of life and as their province in particular to hold up to graduates the melancholy aspects of the failure of a life's work. I depart from that precedent tonight. I do so deliberately. For I am satisfied that no adversity, for I am satisfied that no life is ever completely a failure. It is one of the whimsies of the world

Boy Scout Drive Receipts $4,453.50

Chairman Ramsey Confident Kingston Quota of $12,000 for Two Years Will Be Raised—Dr. Michael Points Out Value of Scout Organization.

The total subscriptions reported Thursday evening by the workers in the Boy Scout campaign was $4,453.50. Chairman Charles Ramsey has issued an appeal to all the members of the teams to make every possible effort to see all of their prospects before tomorrow evening. He is confident from the scale upon which the public is giving that the full quota for Kingston of $12,000 to cover the maintenance of the Boy Scouts movement in Ulster county for the two years from September 1, 1926, to September 1, 1928, will be raised. He urged all the workers to devote their best efforts during today and Saturday to this end so that Kingston can take her place among the hundreds of cities in the country that realize what a vital work is being done for the future citizenship of America through Scouting.

Owing to the fact that both men will speak at the New York City rally that evening, the Saturday afternoon rally in Kingston will start promptly at 1:30 o'clock.

Both men are able orators and will speak fully on the issues of the campaign.

Plane Flew Here In 58 Minutes From Rockaway

Navy Seaplane Manned by Lieutenant Iseman and Lieutenant Wildman Arrived in Rondout Creek This Afternoon on Official Business.

Like a huge bird settling on the water, one of the navy's seaplanes landed on the waters of the Rondout creek this afternoon and headed into the dock of the Cornell Sheds, where it was berthed. It had made the trip from Rockaway, over one hundred miles, in fifty-eight minutes.

The plane was manned by Lieutenant John W. Iseman and Lieutenant C. K. Wildman, and made the flying trip up the Hudson river on official business. Lieutenant Iseman said the air conditions were just right and from the time when the plane took off at the flying field at Rockaway until it alighted on the waters of the Rondout creek the trip had been made in less than an hour.

Lieutenant Iseman is well acquainted with Admiral Higginson and while in Kingston paid his respects to him. Lieutenant Iseman said they expected to fly back to Rockaway later in the afternoon.

The loud purring noise made by the engine as the plane circled over the creek before finally alighting drew many in the downtown section to the docks to view the plane.

The plane itself is the latest type plane operated on a catapult. The catapult is fastened on the deck of the warship and the plane is shot from it into the air.

Robbers Get Gems At Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 29 (AP)—While a patrolman patrolled his beat a block away, robbers just before dawn today cut a two-foot square hole in the plate glass display window of the Van Scoy jewelry store in the heart of the business district here and, disdaining other valuable articles, selected $2,000 worth of diamonds and diamond rings and escaped. No traces of them or their identities have been found.

The robbers waited until the night detail of police had been dismissed at headquarters and had returned home, many of them passing the store. Then, under the rays of an ornamental cluster light in front of the store, a patrolman a block away, they cut the glass without disturbing occupants of the apartment above the store, made their selection with expert judgment, and fled, emptying jewelry cases as they went.

Confesses Before Death on Gallows

Chicago, Oct. 29 (AP)—Richard Evans, 19, paid with his life today for the murder of a Chicago policeman. He was hanged at the Cook county jail at 7:10 a. m.

Before going to the gallows Evans confessed that he and not a drunken companion, as he had steadfastly maintained, shot and killed Patrolman Edward Finnegan last March after the officer arrested the two for speeding.

He walked unaided to the gallows, and his only statement was, "I will have paid my debt to God and society."

MRS. O'LEARY INJURED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Wednesday evening there was a collision at the corner of Wall and Pearl streets when the car of Harry Feldman and Mrs. John G. O'Leary came together. The Studebaker sedan of Mrs. O'Leary was overturned and she was injured. In the car at the time with her was her daughter who escaped injury.

Wadsworth and Mills Will Speak Here Tomorrow

Ogden L. Mills, Republican candidate for governor, and James W. Wadsworth, Jr., the Republican candidate for United States Senator, will address the big Republican mass meeting Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Auditorium Theatre on Pine Grove avenue.

It is expected that there will be a record breaking attendance to hear both men who have been conducting a vigorous campaign throughout the state and who will bring their campaign to a close with a monster rally in New York City Saturday evening.

Owing to the fact that both men will speak at the New York City rally that evening, the Saturday afternoon rally in Kingston will start promptly at 1:30 o'clock.

Both men are able orators and will speak fully on the issues of the campaign.

For and Against Sunday Movies

Arguments For and Against the Local Referendum Presented in Letters to The Freeman Written by Interested Readers.

Here are two letters received from readers of The Freeman who desire to air their views on the subject of Sunday moving pictures:

Worker With Good Job Writes.

To the Editor of The Freeman:

I am a workman with a wife and two children and a good job. I have only a common school education but I like to vote intelligently, so I try to discuss politics and the questions of the day with people who are supposed to know more than I do. I think I shall vote for Sunday movies for I am considerably puzzled by those who are against them.

I do not own an automobile and I haven't any radio. I can't afford them. All the people who are against Sunday movies and say that they would desecrate the Sabbath, seem to think nothing of listening to all kinds of entertainment over a radio.

If it's all right to be entertained through your ears, why can't you be entertained through your eyes. If you can ride all over the country and feast your eyes on the lovely scenery, why can't you look at pictures on a screen?

One man, a banker, said he was against Sunday movies for Kingston but he sometimes went to them in New York. I asked him why and he said because he didn't have anything else to do down there. I told him there were hundreds of people who didn't have anything else to do up here. He has a beautiful car and a radio. I can't understand his reasoning.

Another prominent man in town said he was going to vote against them because his clergyman had asked him to. Both this man and his clergyman have cars and radios.

Nobody seems to think it's wrong to read stories on Sunday and all the scandal and murder stuff in the Sunday papers, but you mustn't look at any story pictured on a screen. That's wrong. They say it's because you have to pay to go in. Well, you have to pay for your papers too, and the books cost money, and you can't run a car without gasoline, and five gallons of that costs just about what two tickets to the movies cost.

If Sunday movies are so bad for a town then these other towns that have them must be much worse than we are. Are they?

Now if anybody who does not own a car or a radio, or who does not read the Sunday papers will write an answer to this and tell me why I should vote No, I am willing to listen to him.

JUST A KINGSTON CITIZEN.

Defies the Brick Throwers.

Kingston, Oct. 29, 1926.

Editor, The Freeman:

I read with great interest the advertisement in your paper last night pretending to be paid for by citizens of Kingston, beseeching us to "Help Smash the Killjoys" and showing us in a large picture how to do it.

Whether movies ran on Sunday or not had not interested me very much until I studied this ad. Now I am interested a whole lot, for the ad. has shown me the kind of men that are behind Sunday movies and that have been paying for covering the billboards, filling the windows and using the newspapers ads. to tell us what we must do.

I wish everybody would get out The Freeman of Thursday night and look over the ad. carefully. It shows the spirit and the way these men work for what they call personal liberty. Lots of it for themselves but bricksbats for anybody who does not agree with them.

Just because these men have come up from New York City or New Jersey to run theatres in Kingston and want to grab our last dime by throwing their theatres open every day and night in the week is no reason why we cannot have opinions of our own without being abused and threatened, as they have done in this ad.

They picture anybody opposed to their plans to get our dimes as a Killjoy who should be smashed with a brick. The picture they print shows this is so. They make a picture of some good man, plaster him over with skulls and then show a big brick thrown at him and knocking his hat off. All because he dares to disagree with them.

Are we going to be so afraid of threats and dictation from a New Jersey theatre magnate or the middle class of those who care nothing for Sunday or for us, except to grab our dime, that we vote to let them do it?

Who governs us in Kingston, ourselves by our votes or orders, ridicule and threats from New Jersey?

Even when I work all day I have 12 chances every week to see the movies and my wife has 14 chances. Sunday movies are nothing like Sunday baseball. The only chance I have to see baseball is on Sunday, so I am not going to be threatened and scared into not seeing Sunday movies which means nothing but more money for a man who does not even live in Kingston.

A KINGSTON WORKING MAN.

Does Not Want a New Rat.

Kingston, N. Y., October 29, 1926.

Dear Editor:

Please oblige me with a space in your paper for the following statement:

A few months ago, on a Sunday

Kingston Boys In California

Made Trip Across the Continent in An $8 Flivver Which They Later Sold for $7.50—Expect to Attend School in Western State.

Edward W. Leverett, Jr., of No. 400 Foxhall avenue and Carl Messinger of West O'Reilly street, who made the trip from Kingston to California in a flivver for which they had paid $8, are planning to remain there and attend school. According to word received by their families here they have sold the flivver for fifty cents less than they paid for it. They were in California during the recent earthquakes.

Both boys left Kingston on September 1 in the flivver and made a number of stops along the way at points of interest. They write they are in the best of health and certainly enjoyed the trip across the continent.

Wife Wounded, Husband Jailed

Leo Cesana of Union Center, Accused of Stabbing Wife Who Is in Kingston City Hospital, Turned Over to Sheriff on Assault Charge.

Mrs. Leo Cesana of Union Center is in the Kingston City Hospital with a wound in the left side of her body, while her husband is lodged in the county jail awaiting a hearing on a charge of assault in the second degree.

At 3 o'clock this morning Dr. George W. Ross of Port Jervis drove up to police headquarters with Cesana and turned him over to the police, who lodged him in the county jail for the remainder of the night. Dr. Ross stated that Cesana, who is 43 years old, had cut his wife in the left side with a pocket knife and that he had taken the wife to the hospital, where she was receiving medical attention.

Texas Oil Co. Buys Along Creek

The Texas Oil Company of Texas, which has filling stations in this city and tanks on Teller street, along the West Shore railroad, has purchased a tract of land along the Rondout creek near The Strand, formerly used by William J. Turck as a lumber yard.

It is understood that the Texas Company will expend over $50,000 in improvements to the property and use it for the sale of gasoline and its other commodities at wholesale. Buildings and tanks will be erected, the grounds concreted and other betterments made to accommodate the trade. It being on the water front, there will be dockage accommodations for their vessels carrying the gasoline, etc.

Progress of Farm Bureau Drive

A check up on the progress of the Farm Bureau membership campaign today showed nearly one hundred members already in under the wire with their annual dues paid up for 1927.

While this is not a new record for dues received by mail it is a fine start toward the desired increase in membership which the bureau directors hope to attain this year. The campaign by mail will continue at a brisk pace until November 8, when the farm-to-farm canvass will begin. Members intending to pay by mail will help the organization greatly by being prompt with their remittance.

Queen's 51st Birthday.

Queen Marie's special train, en route to Winnipeg, Oct. 29 (AP)—Queen Marie of Rumania celebrated her 51st birthday today on her special train, bound from Ottawa for Winnipeg. In festive association with only her children, Princess Helena and Prince Nicolas. The train is due in Winnipeg Saturday evening.

There were different benefits given in the local theatres, the police were called out, there was much cheering.

Now then take the same benefit will be given in local churches how many would attend.

Half of the same crowd own cars, and radios, are against Sunday movies in their minds, but not their hearts will be the first one in line.

If the Sunday movies had some rebirth once that used to be a Sunday movie, the slack attendance on the movies the only difference the year ago was in their car enjoying the scenery while the non-car owner sits before a screen. I am in favor of the three, have the mind and heart rejoice in the same thing.

Take Easter Sunday for instance "miffy" will not go to church she has no new frock to show off—Hobby comes home and says the salesman wants to show a new car, on Easter Sunday, why make the car and make something to wear very quick, (but not for church).

Thanking you in advance.

A LADY TAXPAYER.

Mills Goes Back To Milk; Smith Attacks Economy

Congressman Mills Concentrates Attack on Milk Issue—Smith Raps Coolidge Economy—Wadsworth Does Not Consider Christian In Campaign.

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—The personal issue was out of the state gubernatorial campaign today and the controversy between Governor Smith and his Republican opponent Ogden L. Mills, again centered on whether New York City is supplied with milk up to the legal standard.

Mr. Mills disclaimed any reflection on the governor's private life, explaining that when he said Governor Smith "was not to be trusted," he meant it in a political sense. To that the governor countered that Mills was "not fit to be governor," having "cast his lot with the greatest political dead end (William Randolph Hearst) in the world today, a discredit to his state and to every place where he has ever been."

The New York World (Democratic) considers that neither candidate deserves a bouquet for resource to personalities and hopes that "with Mr. Mills' handsome and manly explanation his part of the incident is closed." At the same time it hopes Governor Smith will be as quick to withdraw the insinuation that his headquarters are harboring dark secrets about the private life of Mr. Mills.

Hughes Urges Wadsworth and Mills.

Mr. Mills spoke last night in Brooklyn, sharing the platform with Charles Evans Hughes, who urged his election and the return of Senator Wadsworth to Washington. Mr. Mills concentrated his attack on the milk issue and said the statewide investigation he urges was indorsed by his opponent some months ago but since had been blocked by Tammany interests. He quoted estimates that New York City each day is paying for 75,000 pounds of water out of a butter consumption of 633,000 pounds.

Economy Talk "Bunk," Says Smith.

Campaign arguments for Mr. Mills yesterday were that "he had learned economy under Calvin Coolidge at Washington" and that the voters are "tired of having Tammany in Albany and never want it in the White House." This the governor styled "the same old bunk about Coolidge economy."

"Coolidge is saving money" down there," he remarked sarcastically. "It seems they have only two cents down there now to eat the mice. They did have three but now they're only two and don't have to buy so much meat. The same old bunk."

Wadsworth Considers Christian Out.

Senator Wadsworth said the senatorial contest was between himself and his Democratic opponent, Robert F. Wagner, which would eliminate Franklin W. Cristman, the independent Republican put forward by the dregs. Mr. Wadsworth continued to defend his stand on the prohibition issue which envisages a modification of the present restrictions, and Mr. Wagner enlarged on the recent Republican primary scandals. Mr. Cristman, speaking in Syracuse, denounced the Quebec system of liquor control as being worse than the old saloon system obtaining in the United States.

DOWNTOWN BUSINESS MEN SATISFIED WITH SALE

A meeting of the Downtown Business Men's Association was held in the Jewish Community Center on Thursday evening. The meeting was well attended and the recent Community Sale was pronounced a success by all. The men who served in official capacities in promoting the sale were given a vote of thanks by the members of the organization. Another meeting of the association will be held on Wednesday, November 3.

BODY FOUND AT BARRYTOWN WEDNESDAY IS IDENTIFIED

The body found Wednesday afternoon on the river bank two and a half miles south of Barrytown has been identified as that of Richard Crocker, who was employed by the New York Central as a section hand. It is said that a blow caused death and the Dutchess county authorities are seeking to trace a man known as Sullivan or Marone, with whom Crocker was friendly while at Barrytown.

Dance at Boker's Hall.

The dance which was to have been held on Monday evening, November 1, at Pete Boker's Hall under the auspices of Mr. Boker will now be held by Claude Chamberlain and Karl Brown, due to the illness of the owner of the hall.

New Walk For Street.

A concrete sidewalk is being laid on the Main street side of the grocery and bakery building of C. B. Everett from the corner of Wall street by William Davis, the contractor. It will be a fine improvement to the street.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 29, 1926.

CONSIDER THE MOVIES.

The city referendum on the matter of permitting the showing of moving pictures on Sunday is deserving of careful and dispassionate consideration by every voter. It should not be decided on mere prejudice, personal feeling or the general and too often justified tendency of the times to "sway" established laws and time honored customs. It has been argued, heatedly, and principally by unsupported assertions, along the lines of pro or anti narrow Puritanism. On this line of argument the conscience of the voter should be the guide as to how to vote.

But there are other aspects of the matter that deserve more intelligent consideration than is generally given. Theatres are an asset to the social and business life of the city. Properly conducted, they afford harmless amusement that often serves as a substitute for and preventive of demoralizing tendencies. By making the city more attractive, good theatres bring business to the merchants and thus add to the prosperity of the entire community. It is a known fact that the theatres of Kingston are often the determining factor in bringing in visitors from the surrounding country, causing them to select Kingston as the place in which to make their purchases.

Conceding all this, another question having to do directly with the wisdom of Sunday moving picture exhibitions, considered from a business standpoint, presents itself. The value to merchants of bringing people to Kingston depends on the ability of the people to purchase and of the merchants to serve them while they are here. Theatre attractions now help to bring potential customers to the merchants to Kingston on the six days in the week on which the stores are open. The theatre melon is divided into six slices. If, with Sunday opening of theatres, people come to Kingston in large numbers on that day, they are not potential customers for the reason that the better class of stores are not open on Sunday. Will not the attracting of visitors on Sunday be at the expense of their liability to remain at home on the other six days in the week on which the stores are open? Will it not, in effect, be cutting the melon in seven slices, instead of six, and so far as the merchant is concerned, throwing the seventh and largest slice away?

Baseball cannot be played at night. Therefore we have Sunday baseball games in order that those shut in by their work on six days in the week may enjoy beneficial outdoor sport and recreation. Moving pictures may be seen six nights each week, which ought to be often enough for anybody, and if for some persons Sundays are blue because of lack of opportunity to look at pictures, there must be something the matter that calls for treatment by an alienist or incarceration in an institution for the feeble-minded.

The voter should thoughtfully consider the question in all its aspects, temperately, sanely, with due regard to industrial and business aspects and conscientious scruples, and then vote accordingly on the question: Do we need moving picture shows on Sunday?

THE REFERENDUM.

The Eighteenth Amendment explicitly gives the power of enforcement to Congress and the States. It does not make mandatory any special form or standard of enforcement except as against the use of "intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes." There is nothing in the Eighteenth Amendment prohibiting the use of intoxicating liquor for medicinal purposes. There is nothing in the Eighteenth Amendment stating at what percentage liquor is intoxicating.

Congress, scared by the threats of the extremists, adopted a ridiculous enforcement law. It granted the medicinal use of liquor as a medicine. It proceeded to meddle with the use by a physician of his scientific knowledge by placing a limit on the amount of liquor he might prescribe for a patient, a limit that takes no recognition of the knowledge of the physician or the needs of the patient. It defined intoxicating liquor as anything containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol, a definition that makes bread an intoxicant.

Like all needlessly oppressive and extreme measures, this law is not enforced. It cannot be enforced. It has neither the respect nor the support of the people, except as good citizens respect and observe all laws. Yet the advocates of the letter of the law, many of whom in their own lives do not observe either the letter or the spirit of it, insist that it should remain on the books and enforced against others.

Unbiased, intelligent, temperate men and women believe that this is a mistake; that we should have one law applicable and applied to all; a law that is constitutional, reasonable and enforceable. Through the referendum they will register their opinion. The referendum is not binding. It repeals, changes nor nullifies no law. It is simply a declaration that the law we now have should be liberalized, made sensible and enforceable. The wording of the referendum is unfortunate in that it is too narrow, but unless one passes over that and votes in the affirmative, there is no protest made against an extreme and foolish law. In any event, the vote is in no way in conflict with the provisions of the Eighteenth Amendment.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
CURING GOITRE WITHOUT SURGERY.

It is generally admitted that there has been an increase in goitre since the war, that is in the severe type accompanied by the bulging eyes, rapid heart, and nervous symptoms. Although surgery has advanced wonderfully in the treatment of these cases, it is now considered the wise thing to operate only where it is urgent, where there are pressure symptoms.

As the X-ray treatment was found to be helpful in other growths or increase in tissue, it was tried on a few cases of severe goitre. The results were so satisfactory that all over the world now reports are at hand that many cases are being cured, and others so benefited, that operation has been unnecessary. Dr. Jenkinson of Chicago makes the positive statement that all cases of the severe type of goitre, without pressure symptoms, should be treated by means of the X-ray. Even where there has been an operation which was unsuccessful, the X-ray will give satisfactory results.

As you know an enlarged thyroid gland or goitre make the processes of the body work faster, sometimes from fifteen to forty or more percent above normal requirements. The first thing noticeable about the X-ray treatment is that this extra work is reduced in amount, and the body gains just that much in weight and strength.

The X-ray apparently stops the increase in the number of cells of the thyroid gland, and so less of the material that stimulates the body processes is manufactured. This is practically the same effect that the X-ray has on cancer that can be reached by this form of treatment. It would seem that the medical profession have now got goitre where the various types are not only recognized, but the necessary treatment is available.

To prevent goitre, a little iodine, for a couple of weeks twice a year is sufficient.

In simple goitre iodine for a longer period is curative. In the more severe type, rest, mental and physical, is often sufficient. And in the very severe type the X-ray treatment, or as a last resort, surgery.

There is not now the dread and uncertainty of former years regarding goitre.

THE PRAIRIE DOGS

"Almost ready, almost ready, lights out," said Mother Prairie Dog.

"What do you mean by lights out?" asked the little prairie dog.

"Oh," laughed Mother Prairie Dog, "when children are put to bed their mothers say, 'lights out' so I've heard."

"The keeper says that when we go to bed for the winter we put out lights, too."

"Of course, we haven't any real lights to put out, but we do sleep where it is dark, just like all creatures do or should do."

"It's almost time for us to go to bed, for the cold weather will soon be here and that means winter will be along and that means that we will have to be going to bed."

"We were late last year in getting to bed. We must be in plenty of time this year."

"Really, perhaps you may not hurry quite so much right away, but you must be ready when the time comes."

Now the little prairie dogs had a large yard all to themselves in the zoo.

Here they dug their holes and here they lived and laughed and sat on their hind feet and barked.

Prairie dogs don't look like dogs—they probably are called dogs because of their barks but they look like tiny woodchucks or ground squirrels.

They always go to bed for the winter whether they are free or whether they are in the zoo.

Nothing changes their plans, no matter where they are.

They all go to bed in the zoo, too, among the prairie dogs, the mothers and daddies and children, too.

"The keeper will keep and clear the snow off our holes," Mother Prairie Dog said.

"Yes, he knows about the ways of prairie dogs," said Father Prairie Dog.

"Well, we'd better begin to get ready now," said Mother Prairie Dog.

"Pleasant dreams, sweet sleep," said the little prairie dogs.

"I'll set the clock for spring," said Father Prairie Dog, which, of course, would be their time for getting up instead of seven o'clock on the following morning.

To be sure, they hadn't any real clock and besides you can't set any clock for spring!

But there are all the little signs or clocks of nature which let those who sleep all winter know when spring has come.

That was what Father Prairie Dog meant when he said that he would set the clock for spring.

He meant that they would not get up until spring had come.

Oh, when you're very sleepy and very tired, you can think to yourself, "Well, if only I were going to set the clock for spring, I'd have a far longer rest than setting it for morning, when I have to get up and go to school."

Yet again, it wouldn't be nice to miss all the fun that can be had and all the good times, and even a long, pleasant sleep would not be as nice as wide-awake times.

Besides you can get rested the next night if you're tired one night and haven't had enough sleep.

All very well for the prairie dogs to set the clock for spring.

But it is much better, particularly when one is not a prairie dog, to do differently from those jolly, barking, merry, but sleepy little prairie dogs.

A Non-Partisan Judiciary

In the Third Judicial District comprising the Counties of Albany, Rensselaer, Columbia, Greene, Ulster, Schoharie and Sullivan there are seven Justices of the Supreme Court.

All of them are Republicans.

The last Democratic Justice of the Supreme Court to have been elected in this District was Judge James A. Betts, elected in 1898.

Neither party should have a monopoly of all the Supreme Court Justices in the Third Judicial District.

In Andalusia

Harvesting Almonds in Andalusia.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

A THREATENED revolution in Spain has thrust that usually somnolent country into the foreground. It is a large country of diverse features and peoples, each of which is imbued with a highly localized patriotism which has made for dissension on more than one occasion. To the traveler who has wandered about the peninsula the name "Spain" is most likely, perhaps, to bring up thoughts of Andalusia, the warm, sunny southern province, paradise of the Moors for centuries.

The Moors made all of Andalusia the center of a wonderful civilization. In this they were aided, of course, by the enormous natural wealth of the soil and by a matchless lavishness of sky, sun and moon. These latter elements contribute in no small degree to the far-famed brightness of the Andalusian character of today.

The traveler will find renowned monuments here, and between times he may be sure that the people who pass before him will not let his interest lag. If he can be borne with the tide, enjoying the flowers, the arid sky, and the sympathetic and rather happy-go-lucky Andalusians, he will want to return and retrace his footsteps again and again. But heaven help him if he is in a great hurry and attempts to carry out his new world punctuality and efficiency of program!

No matter which way one may be traveling in southern Spain, the little station of Bobadilla will soon be encountered. And thereafter it will surely bob up again with considerable persistence, because at Bobadilla, which would otherwise have no fame of any description, the main lines cross—the railway from north to south and that from east to west. Therefore, be it from Gibraltar to Granada, from Malaga to Seville, from Cadiz to Ocala, everyone halts and nearly everyone must change trains at this little station.

Furthermore, since Andalusian trains, as a rule, are in no untimely rush to arrive at their destination, the stop at Bobadilla is usually long enough to enable the traveler to partake of a satisfying meal in the station restaurant.

Bobadilla itself is high on a plateau surrounded by gray mountains of a barren and forbidding appearance; but the train to the south soon enters the valley of the Guadalquivir, a little stream which has succeeded in cutting a deep channel through the mountain range, seeking its way to the sea.

Through the Orange Country.

Judging from the results, the railway engineers had almost as much difficulty as the river itself in finding a way through. The train plunges into a short tunnel to emerge with a rear onto a bridge strung high over a terrifying deep ravine. One catches a glimpse of huge boulders clinging to the sides of the seemingly bottomless cut, and looking high above, sees the blue sky of Andalusia. The cut itself is as deep as a skyscraper is high and no wider than a narrow street.

After this, the passage through the last tunnel it covers suddenly cuts open the vega, a veritable garden of soft, green luxuriance. On every hand are orange, palm trees, bright afternoon sunshine, and the over deep-blue domed sky of the Mediterranean countries.

The train passes through Alora, whose many attractive villas may be seen—pink and green and light-blue villas with white domes of red terracotta and balconies full of bright trailing flowers—the summer homes of Andalusian families.

At the station one may also see, in early November, great piles of oranges and lemons, around which sit many women and girls, wrapping each fruit in soft paper and packing it in boxes for shipment to London and to the mercantile markets of America.

Then there is a stop at Churruarín, another settlement of summer homes, settling on a hillside in this vast green garden. The hill completely hides Churruarín from the sea, and it is said that many people moved there in 1918, when it was rumored that Russian garrisons were to be landed at the city of Malaga.

Suddenly a band is sounded; long blue waters of the Mediterranean spring into the picture. Another ten minutes and one is in Malaga, the capital of the province, the seat of a bishop, and the fifth city of Spain.

Nuts, Fruits and Wines.
The quays are crowded with huge piles of cargo. In one may be counted 12,000 boxes—200 tons—of almonds for one New York-bound steamer, all shelled and awaiting only the blanching and salting for your table. Of these sweet almonds some are so large that 12 will weigh an ounce.

Another mountain of boxes contains muscatel raisins as big as quarter dollars and so delicate that no machine has ever been invented that will seed them. If the skin is only slightly picked, the raisin soon becomes a mass of sugar.

Little half-barrels are full of the finest Malaga grapes, packed in cork shavings, for our Christmas dinner; and there are thousands and thousands of crates of prunes, lemons, and tangerines; also boxes and barrels of rich olive oil, some of which is used by our Pacific coast salmon packers in preparing their product; and little boxes and baskets of pressed figs, crates of pomegranates, melons, custard apples, and sweet potatoes.

Barrels of that deliciously sweet muscatel wine are marked London, Havana, and Buenos Aires, but none for New York. There are bags of sweet-smelling aniseed, and even extract of thyme, lavender, and rosemary, for millady's toilet.

And while all this is happening on the quays at the railway station, in November and early December, crates of fresh beans and tomatoes are being carefully packed in express cars to be rushed to Paris epicures, to be followed by strawberries in March and April.

From Malaga to Granada there are two ways to go by motor car, both routes over the mountains. The shorter road leads directly above the city, zigzagging and winding ever up and along frightening precipices until, in 45 minutes, one has ascended 8,000 feet and may see Malaga far below and, across the broad blue Mediterranean, the shores of Africa.

Granada is Flourishing.

Twenty-five years ago Granada was dirty and run down, but it has taken a new lease on life. There are now a dozen or more sugar factories in the province of Granada employing the sugar beet as raw material, whereas next door, in Malaga province, there are several sugar factories where sugar cane is used. Yet, with all this, Spain imports sugar.

The vast fertile plateau from Antequera to Granada is picturesque in the extreme—rolling hills, with here and there an abrupt precipice, a deep cut, or a towering mass of bald gray rock to add to its rugged appearance. The hills are really small mountains, as they form the lower reaches of the Sierra Nevada.

This whole country seems to be an immense olive orchard. Thousands and thousands of the olive-green trees are planted in straight rows, running up toward the tops of the slopes.

Granada's thoroughfares are paved and clean and there is a prosperous appearance about everything. Streets are crowded and there are many automobiles, most of American make; and some fine new buildings, modern shops, all lending a Madrid-like atmosphere unfamiliar in most Andalusian towns.

Although the main avenues are wide and modern, it is like entering another world to turn down one of the narrow streets and peep through doorways into lovely patios full of flowers, palms and orange trees, all guarded by beautiful wrought-iron doors.

The town of the Moors is so strong that one instinctively looks far along white robes and turbanned heads.

Here and there, in shops out on the sidewalks, are girls making the fairly small Granada lace. They stretch out little on large frames and weave into it pretty designs, for small handkerchiefs, and such were elaborate motifs for tablecloths and curtains. Their chief work is the manufacture of Spanish muscatel. The sight of signs in Granada, of course, is the Alhambra, a story in itself.

GUIDE FOR VOTERS ON ENFORCEMENT ISSUE

Colorado, Nevada, Wisconsin,
Illinois and New York Vote in November for Some Form of State Regulation.

On January 1, 1905 Georgia adopted a law prohibiting manufacture and sale, thus outlawing the saloon but it did not forbid importation in unlimited amounts for personal use. In 1916 during the war the amount of spirits was limited to two quarts of spirits, six gallons of beer or one gallon of wine within any thirty consecutive days. In 1917 a state "Prohibition" law was passed and near the end of 1919 the Volstead act became effective.

The effect of these changes in the Georgia laws are "restrictive." As soon as the restrictive law went into effect in January 1905 arrests for drunkenness fell from 8,500 in 1904 to 2,650 in 1905 and maintained that low level of about 1,000 per annum until the "banquet" law was enacted in 1917. In 1918 drunkenness began to increase and has been increasing almost steadily ever since. In 1925 there were 7,687 arrests for drunkenness which is much more than twice as high as the level maintained for the years 1905 to 1917, inclusive, during the more moderate state restrictive law.

Commenting on this condition in Atlanta, the Bridgeport (Conn.) Post remarks editorially:

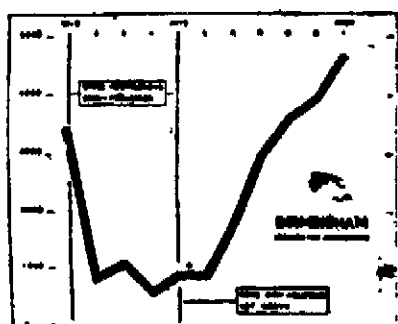

"Atlanta went dry by its own consent, under state and local option. There was immediately a marked improvement in the situation. Arrests for drunkenness fell to a low level and remained at that level for a period of more than ten years under a law imposed upon the people of the state entirely by their own consent and enforced with their own legal machinery.

"Then came the passage of the national prohibition act, and instantly the drunkenness rate in Georgia began to rise and has been rising ever since. All the good work of ten years of temperance under local option has been undone."

Arrests in Atlanta for Drunkenness

In 1915 Alabama got a state-wide restrictive law prohibiting manufacture and the sale of liquor, but permitting the importation of two quarts of spirits five gallons of beer or two gallons of wine every fifteen days for personal use. The law also expressly permitted home made wine. This continued to be the state law until it was superseded by the Volstead Act. Arrests for drunkenness fell from 3,481 in 1915 to 907 in 1916, and maintained this low level during the restrictive period, averaging 924 a year from 1916 to 1919. In 1921 arrests for drunkenness started on their astonishing climb upwards, so that in 1925 there were 4,704 drunks arrested—a level almost five times greater than under the more moderate law.

Beginning with 1917 and up to 1919 practically the entire United States was under some sort of war time restrictions. Arrests for drunkenness in 384 places fell from 542,039 in 1917 to 309,760 in 1919. There was a further drop in 1920, the first year of national prohibition, but by 1925 the arrests were nearly as many as before 1917 and steadily climbing.

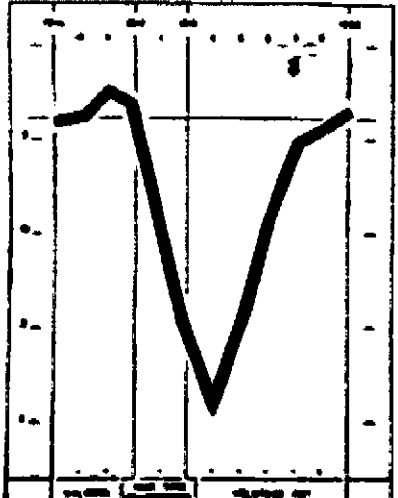

Chart Showing Record of Drunkenness in the United States.

It therefore appears that a greater degree of temperance was secured under State regulation than we have had since the Federal Government tried to do the work.

The people in Colorado, Nevada, Wisconsin, Illinois and New York are voting this year on referendum for some form or other of State regulation, and the results will have considerable influence on the future of national prohibition.

First Steam War Vessel Ever Built.
Invention of Robert Fulton,
Launched in New York
October 29, 1814.

The first American floating battery was seen in the Charles River, at Boston, in October, 1775. General Washington had ordered the construction of two to assist in the siege that beleaguered city. They were armed and manned, and on October 26 opened fire on the town, producing much consternation.

These appear to have been built of strong planks, pierced near the water-line for oars and farther up were port-holes for musketry. A heavy gun was mounted on each end, and upon the top were four swivels.

When the War of 1812 broke out, the subject of harbor defenses occupied much of the attention of the citizens of the American coast-towns, especially New York City.

Among the scientific men of the day, John Stevens, of Hoboken, N. J. and Robert Fulton of New York City appear conspicuous in proposing plans for that purpose.

Earlier than this, in 1807 Abraham Bloodgood, of Albany suggested the construction of a floating revolving battery not unlike, in its essential character, the revolving turret, called the "Monitor," built by Captain Ericsson, in 1861-62.

In March, 1814, Thomas Gregg, of Pennsylvania, obtained a patent for a proposed iron clad steam vessel-of-war, resembling somewhat the "rams" used during the Civil War.

At about the same time Robert Fulton submitted a plan of a floating battery which was approved by naval officers. It was in the form of a steam warship of peculiar construction, that might move at the rate of four miles an hour, and furnished, in addition to its regular armament of forty-four guns, with submarine guns.

Her construction was ordered by Congress, and she was built in the shipyard of Adam and Noah Brown, at Corlear's Hook, N. Y., under the personal supervision of Mr. Fulton. This was the first war steamer ever built.

She was launched October 29, 1814, and called the "Demologos," but the name was changed soon after Fulton's death, to "Fulton the First." On July 4, 1815, she made a trial trip of fifty-three miles to the ocean and back, going at the rate of six miles an hour.

The "Fulton the First" measured 145 feet on deck and fifty-five feet breadth of beam, and drew only eight feet of water. She had twin-hulls, with paddle wheel between them, and with bulwarks four feet and ten inches thick. She was commanded by Captain David Porter.

The War of 1812 terminated before the effectiveness of the "Fulton" as a war-vessel could be tested, and she was afterward taken to the Brooklyn Navy Yard and there used as a receiving-ship, until January, 1829, when she was accidentally blown up.

The most extravagant stories concerning this monster of the deep went forth about the time of her launching.

This was almost the last work upon which the great inventor was employed, for at the time he was building this cannon-proof steam frigate, he was also perfecting his favorite device of submarine sailing vessels, in connection with the torpedo warfare.

Mr. Fulton did not live to witness the completion of his floating battery. He may be said to have been a martyr to the undertaking. His constitution was not strong and he exposed himself to the elements through a severe winter.

He had been in attendance at the legislature of New Jersey where he had been summoned to give evidence in the protracted steamboat controversy, and on his return passage across the Hudson he suffered exposure in an open boat, which was caught in the ice-floes.

Mr. Fulton was taken ill upon his return home, and before he was fully recovered, ventured out to superintend some work on the exposed dock of the "Demologos." This brought an increased illness, which speedily terminated in death. February 24, 1815.

Thus perished, at the age of fifty, in the midst of his labors, one of the most ingenious and eminent inventors. His remains lie in the family tomb of the Livingston family, in the ground of old Trinity Church.

The Perfect Shampoo

Susy sat, before the mirror in her pretty apricot-and-jade negligee and heaved miserable sighs. She was drawing a comb through her thick hair, just growing out after a long era of bobbedness, and was gloomily regarding the comb, which held a sticky gray line of mingled soap and lint.

"Well, I just can't get my hair clean, that's all there is to it!" she snapped. "I washed it and washed it, and rinsed and rinsed it, and still the soap is in it, and it feels absolutely horrid. I don't see how Madame Berthe gets it so clean. I do it just the way she does, and look at it! I simply can't afford to go and pay her a dollar and a half every fortnight—my allowance won't stand it!" And Susy's head drooped with discouragement.

"Well now, I wonder if you do wash it just exactly as Madame Berthe does," exclaimed Aunt Susy, who was visiting. "First of all, how many times do you put the soap on?"

"Why once," said Susy, "but I put a whole lot on and rub it a long time."

"Well, there's your chief trouble," soothed Aunt Susy. "Now let's do it again, and get it clean. First of all, we'll get this pure castle soap melted down into a thick smooth liquid. Never rub a cake of soap on your hair—you'd never get it out. It must be poured on. Now rub it in lightly, all through. Then here's the secret. Take the bath spray, attach it to the faucet and wash every bit of that first soaping right off. You see that only loosens the dirt, it doesn't remove it.

"Now put on your real thorough supply of soap. Pour it on lavishly, and rub and rub. Scour! Rub hard—harder! See that splendid mass of soap suds. Rub it into the ends of your hair and scrub hard. Now we are ready for the rinsing spray. Get up a strong pressure; let the water beat down on your head and fairly drive the soap out. Then if it doesn't feel silky clean, apply another dose of soap and scrub and rinse again!"

"That's the most important thing—that second or third application of soap, after washing away the first soap and dirt. The drying is simple—rub well with a linen towel, that doesn't leave lint, and then fan it or dry it slowly in front of the radiator. Comb it out before it is quite dry and it will not tangle. And there's a beautiful clean shining head for you!"

ROCKY ROSTRUM
FOR A PREMIER

Perugia, Where Mussolini Will Lecture, Like Medieval Robber's Castle.

Washington—Adding still another title to the many he possesses—that of college professor—Benito Mussolini is to lecture to students of the newly organized University for Foreigners in Perugia, Italy, according to news dispatches. The city in which students' pencils are to fly while Italy's premier describes the glories of ancient Rome, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society:

"Perugia's setting is almost unique for a town of nearly 25,000 inhabitants," says the bulletin. "It is like a medieval robber baron's castle expanded magically into a city. It lies on the top of a beetling ridge that rises 1,200 feet over the nearby Tiber, its walls and palaces and houses clinging to the narrow heights like ivy turned to stone."

Once a Civic Bully.

"The city's history during the Middle Ages—the Renaissance was not unlike that of a glorified robber baron. It was the civic bully of Umbria. Its people of those days well earned a reputation for a grim, blood-thirsty and vindictive turbulence. They took life seriously and passionately in all its phases: war, religion, sport."

"The surrounding towns were all subdued, and if the conquered neighbors failed to evidence abject humility toward the proud victors, bloody reprisals were visited on them. The religion of St. Francis of Assisi (Assisi is only 14 miles away) influenced the Perugians at one time so greatly that between a quarter and a third of the male inhabitants are said to have taken the Franciscan habit. The influence was not lasting, however, for soon they were again at their bloody wars, both against their neighbors and among themselves. Their sports had almost the brutality of a Roman holiday. A favorite contest was stone-throwing in the main piazza. Often as a result of such wanton 'sporting' bouts numbers were killed and many more seriously injured."

"But these chapters in Perugia's life are of the past. The change that has taken place in the character of the populace is astounding. Today the Perugians, while maintaining a certain independence of spirit that their falcon-nest city could hardly fail to impart, are quiet, gentle and considerate."

"When Perugia grew from its small Etruscan beginnings it extended itself along the ridges of its hill, then made use of some of the slopes immediately below the crests. Few of its streets, therefore, are level. Most of the little open spaces that the city possesses have been made artificially and are shored up by walls and buttresses. The modern American city that creates parks from refuse dumps is following a lead set by this Italian hill town many centuries ago. The Piazza Sopramuro, which is the market heart of the city, owes its existence to the medieval counterpart of our tin cans, waste paper and junk. Finally the accumulation buried an ancient Etruscan wall, hence the name of the square, 'Upon the Wall.'"

Medieval Building Boom.

"In the Fourteenth and Fifteenth centuries there was an almost continuous 'building boom' in Perugia, and chroniclers wrote of the difficulty of obtaining mortar, stones and masons. It became a city of palaces, each with its lofty tower. In the turbulent days that followed most of these towers were pulled down by rival families. A few still stand and the trunks of many more can be traced in walls of later buildings."

"Perugia was nominally a possession of the popes from the Tenth century. But for a long time its ecclesiastical owners left the city pretty much alone and it lived its own quarrelsome life, virtually independent. About the middle of the Sixteenth century Pope Paul III took definite hold of the town and built a huge fortress to awe the people into submission. This great pile on the city's highest point became for centuries the symbol to the people of their loss of freedom."

"They revolted in 1550, but Swiss Guards were rushed in and put hundreds of the citizens to the sword. The following year a general of Victor Emanuel drove out the papal forces and the people set about demolishing their hated bastille. The level space so obtained was turned into Perugia's prettiest square, around which are modern government buildings. The view from this lofty piazza is one of the best in non-Alpine Italy. Below is spread out the great fertile Umbrian plain, once the bed of a large lake, geologists say. At intervals rise hills, lower than that on which Perugia sits enthroned, and on each of these smaller eminences are the walls of towns and villages. This is the domain over which Perugia ruled with a strong arm, and over which she still holds economic and political leadership."

"Perugia's cathedral, or 'duomo,' dates from the Fourteenth century. Its greatest treasure is a finger ring said to be the wedding ring of the Virgin. This relic is kept in 15 or more caskets, each locked inside another. The key to each is kept by a separate cardinal. They meet several times each year, open the caskets and bring the ring to view."

The Office of Sheriff

ARTHUR RICE.

This office represents the enforcement of the law. The processes in civil actions, the arrest and custody of criminals and the quelling of riots are some of the responsibilities placed upon the shoulders of the person elected to fill this important position.

In the selection of such person the public confidence in the man who is to have charge of the sheriff's office is of the highest importance among the many qualifications required.

Public confidence is not created in a day nor during the heat of a political campaign, but it is acquired only as the result of the daily work and actions of a man, which constitutes his life's record. It is not wealth, it is not position that inspires confidence but the man himself.

Arthur Rice has the public confidence.

He had it among the boys at No. 2 Public School, which was the first school he attended, at the age of 6 years, and from there to Ulster Academy. A cigar manufacturer for a number of years, eight years as marshal of the City of Kingston, and probation officer of the City of Kingston afforded opportunities for the public generally to appraise his worth.

A man's character is not limited to his business activities. Sportsmanship is a sure index of character. The public have had abundant opportunity to know the sportsmanship of Arthur Rice. Baseball is the great popular national game, and Arthur Rice was one of the best players ever in the City of Kingston.

It was not alone his fine playing that endeared him for years to the public, but his honesty, fairness, his refusal to do any underhand or mean act made him one of the most popular baseball players in this city. His conduct in this great game showed his character.

He was the coach of the baseball players in the High School, and the then boys are now his enthusiastic supporters for the high office of sheriff.

He is a member of the Rondout Masonic Lodge and of the Kingston Elks.

He served the people of this County two terms as a supervisor from the City of Kingston.

The people know when he fills the office of sheriff, that the office will be conducted honestly and fairly, and to the complete satisfaction of the public. That is the reason he is receiving such hearty support throughout Ulster County by both Democrats and Republicans who believe in a square deal.

PROGRESSIVE RED
CROSS CAMPAIGN
FOR HEALTH

Public Health Nursing, Nutrition and Home Hygiene Work Cover the Country.

Important contributions to public health were made by the American Red Cross through its Public Health Nursing Service, Nutrition Service, and in instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. In every State and Alaska, with the exception of Delaware and Nevada, instruction was given by the Red Cross, also in the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Virgin Islands. A total of 57,370 women and girls learned to make a hygienic home, and care for the sick in their homes.

The United States Public Health Service estimates that adequate rural health nursing service would cost $20,000,000 annually, but would save a billion dollars in value of human life, earning power, and economic conservation. The American Red Cross, through its Public Health Nurses, of whom there were nearly 800 on duty the past year, is doing its part in meeting this requirement.

The Red Cross, through its Nutrition Service, taught thousands what to eat for health. In this country, 24 States were served with from one to ten Red Cross Chapter nutrition programs in each State. In 35 States, nutrition instruction was given either through the regular nutrition instructors or through volunteer dietitians.

During the school year an average of 15,413 individuals a month, including parents, teachers, pre-school, and school children, were assisted to a better knowledge of food in its relation to health, and how to apply it to their daily lives. In March, 111,219 individuals received this instruction, while during the year 3,558 classes were conducted and 4,450 conferences and home visits were given by nutritionists, thus reaching thousands of individuals.

The Annual Roll Call for Membership from November 11 to 25 is an invitation to all persons to assist in maintenance of such services through another year by enrolling in the American Red Cross.

RED CROSS SERVICES
SHOW UPWARD TREND

Disaster Relief, Veterans' Aid
Foremost in Fiscal Year.
Services All Vital.

Expenditures by the American Red Cross for the last year showed a mounting curve as compared with those for the preceding year—$11,892,889.35 as against $10,321,679.80. The outstanding appropriations were for disaster relief and assistance to disabled veterans. For disaster relief the American Red Cross expended $3,571,637, of which the National Organization contributed $3,642,857, and the Red Cross Chapters $229,000. For disabled veterans, a total of $3,622,178 was called for, of which National Headquarters appropriated $1,641,178, and Chapters, $1,981,000.

The disaster relief figures do not include the Florida operations, which occurred after the end of the fiscal year, in addition to the work for disabled veterans, the Red Cross continued its work on behalf of men in the Regular Army and Navy and Marine Corps, which called for a total appropriation of $509,461.

The trained nurses' reserve, from which nurses for disasters and other emergencies are called, cost $47,382, borne entirely by the National Headquarters. Public Health Nursing, a part of the Red Cross program of national health work, cost $194,823; instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick required $152,466 in nutrition instruction, $164,107 was expended.

The Red Cross campaign to reduce deaths from accidents and drowning, conducted by the First Aid and Life-Saving Service, called for $253,285, and has shown tangible results in lives saved annually.

The Junior Red Cross, one of the foremost peace influences in the world, was carried on at a cost of $631,053. All local Chapter activities of the Red Cross cost $22,040, while other domestic operations of the Red Cross, borne by National Headquarters, amounted to $264,040.

The remainder of the fiscal year's expenditures were accounted for in similar and foreign operations, of which the American Red Cross served, absorbed $53,075; League of Red Cross Societies, $100,000; Junior Red Cross foreign projects, $74,065; assistance to Junior Chapters, $60,000; other similar and foreign work, $64,723; supervision of service division and general management, $379,629.21.

The total expenditures for the year ended June 30 last were divided: National Organization, $7,301,909.35; local Chapters, $4,511,000. In the Tenth Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 25, the public is invited to share in this vast work done in their name by enrolling in the American Red Cross as members.

HIGH FALLS.

High Falls, Oct. 28.—The Home Bureau suit of this place is celebrating for an entertainment to be given the first week in November. The date will be published later.

Mrs. Anna Bachman is spending the week with relatives in Warwick. Mrs. Jacob DeLamater was a caller at the home of Mrs. M. C. Van Wageningen on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. Lator, who attended the funeral of her brother-in-law, Mr. Torrey, in New York city this week, has returned home.

The wind storm that passed over this place on Monday did considerable damage to fruit trees. A large pear tree in the yard of Mrs. M. C. Van Wageningen blew over and completely demolished one of the abutments on her house on Tuesday. Victor Lewis repaired it.

Mrs. Harry Green's father has been a guest at their home the past week.

Joseph Felsberg has been confined to his home the past week. His daughter, Miss Susan Felsberg, of New York, is home on account of her father's illness.

Mrs. Gust Young in company with Mrs. Lewis Westbrook and daughter, Wilhelmina, of Kyser, returned to Kingston the past Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Smith and family and Mrs. Lewis Smith of Kingston spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Farrell.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Albany were guests of Mrs. E. D. Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Gust Young on Tuesday.

Mrs. Harry Stevens, who has been employed at Mountain Rest for the summer, has returned home.

Mrs. Kenneth Church and little son of Poughkeepsie spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Preston Church.

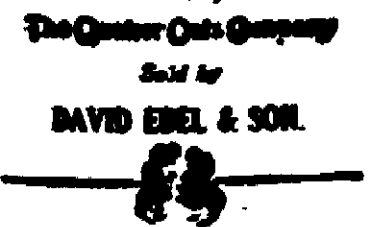

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joseph of New Brunswick called on friends in High Falls on Sunday.

The Catholic Church in this place will be closed during the winter months and a bus will convey the people of High Falls to Roseton every Sunday morning at 9:30 to attend church.

Joseph DeLamater is home for a few days, making some repairs about his home.

Obituary Announcement

The fellow who dares to tell you that "It's a small world after all" never had any experience traveling for a hot golf ball.—Bayton News.

It is interesting to note the general dark coloring of the presumed survivors of early man in the southern ends of the Old World, with the exception of the African forest pygmies and the Bushmen. It may be that the pigment formerly supplying the hairs diminished in the skin as the hair diminished in quantity, especially in view of the fact that a certain amount of pigment is a valuable protection against the too great influence of the rays of the sun. It was, obviously, especially types with broad, flat noses, prominent noses and feeble brow ridges and specially curved hair that advanced southward in Africa, but a Skin Adapted to Climate.

Looking generally at the early record of man northward in Asia, we note that yellow-brown or brown or brownish skin is a widespread feature. It is partly a maintenance of early pigmentation, partly, perhaps, adaptation of that pigment to conditions of snow glare and sunlight in cold climate along lines which are made the subject of physical investigation. The skins are usually all provided with dry epidermal layers, as would be natural in such climates. For the most part, hair retention has been carried to an extreme, and such hair on remaining grows in fine spots in such a way as to fill the pores very completely.

Sweat glands also are not overabundant, and, in consequence of this, skins of this kind have a low irritability, as important fact in relation to the equality of temperature and relatively low sensibility to pain that is characteristic of many of the people.

ends back the sounds he is happy to have his music with as little reverberation as possible. After puzzling over this apparent contradiction, Prof. F. W. Watson, an authority on acoustics, began a series of experiments to find the best conditions for both player and listener.

A room was selected by having a great deal of sound-absorbing material placed in it. In this room musicians first found it hard to play, but as successive portions of the "sounder" materials were removed, as the reverberation increased, however, the pleasure of the listeners grew less.

In the trial which led to discovery of the ideal arrangement, sound-absorbing material was scattered generally over the room. To this treatment of the musicians was adverse. Some of the material was then removed to the opposite end of the room. This proved better for both players and listeners, and the transfer continued

Make Curfew Law Enforcement Difficult.

Chicago.—Time turned back a generation or two as Chicago, a sophisticated city of 3,000,000, revived the curfew law of its innocent village days, but policemen, bemused by the styles of the reigning generation, found enforcement a matter of considerable difficulty.

All boys and girls sixteen years old or under must be off the streets at ten o'clock, the city fathers had ruled in an effort to end a long record of attacks and kidnappings, and 3,000 bluecoats were sent forth to enforce the edict.

Then their troubles began, for they claimed that with the prevailing modes of short skirts, rolled hosiery and bobbed hair they were unable to distinguish children from grownups.

Several married women, well past twenty, were taken into custody as "children," while bewildered policemen who stopped "kids" are indignantly informed that their ages were above the curfew limit.

One suggestion that the age limit be raised to eighteen was made by juvenile authorities, but the youth searching coppers maintained that that did not make much difference.

Although the order of the city police did not go into effect until recently, the county curfew, which applies to girls under sixteen after 10:30 p. m., was sounded the previous night.

More than a score of girls were caught and warned that the next time they will go to the juvenile detention home. Their parents were notified.

The orders to the city police were to question any children found unaccompanied after the forbidden hour and send them home. On a second offense, under the city ordinance, the parents will face a fine of $5 to $100 and the child the juvenile court.

Parks were ordered cleared at 10 p. m., and county highway officers patrolled country roads and lovers' lanes.

"Youngsters must do their courting hereafter in the parlor at home," said Chief of Police Collins. "Not that we want to be old-fashioned and violate personal liberty, but simply as a common-sense measure to check dangers to themselves."

"The worst of the moron crimes are committed against young girls. It is too late to save them after they have been picked up or kidnapped."

True to Form

"Do you act toward your wife as you did before you married her?" asked one married man of another.

"I'll say I do. Exactly. I remember how I used to act when I first met her and fell in love. I used to hang over the fence in front of her house and gaze at her shadow on the curtains, afraid to go in. And I act just the same way now when I get home late after a poker game."

MOORELAND.

Highland, Oct. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wilcox and Mr. and Mrs. G. Carpenter of this place have returned from a week spent in Philadelphia and they report a delightful trip by auto and visits to many interesting places, especially the sesquicentennial.

Mr. and Mrs. James Callihan and son who motored to Philadelphia a week ago, have returned. They had a very fine trip and a very interesting one. They had a great deal of rain there which made it rather unpleasant. These people were residents of Philadelphia for several years.

Captain and Mrs. R. H. Decker had recent guests: Arthur Decker of New York city, Mrs. M. Harper of Cliftondale and Miss Alma Burgher of Staatsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weesenaar of Maple avenue are on a western trip. Mrs. R. H. Decker was a recent guest of Mrs. Henry Hovet and Mrs. J. P. Leo in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parks celebrated the tenth anniversary of their marriage Monday evening by giving a "stag party." All had a grand time and Mrs. Parks at the proper time served delicious and appetizing refreshments. She also received a gift in honor of the event.

J. W. Feeter has been on a hunting trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Lett of Milton avenue have returned home from Savannah, Ga.

Monday evening Adonal Lodge, F. & A. M., held their regular meeting and received their district deputy, George Goudy. His visit was hailed with delight and his home coming was very enthusiastic, and the kindness, loyalty and love accorded him was greatly appreciated.

Philip Schantz has spent some time in Little Falls and Herkimer county purchasing hay.

J. B. Volina and Miss Marjory, his daughter, have been in Philadelphia for a week. They attended a reunion of the Rockefeller Family Association of which they are members. They also attended a banquet at the famous Benjamin Franklin Hotel, and then they visited Sesquicentennial. They enjoyed every moment of it.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Maynard and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Feeter have been spending some time in their respective camps. Camp life will soon be over, for when cold weather comes on it is not so enjoyable.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Elting were in Fan Wood, New Jersey, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wood have moved in their recently purchased home on North Road.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Harrington of Church street had recent guests from New Falls.

Miss Viola and Elsie Miller of White street have spent their vacation in Philadelphia, Newark and New York city, and report a delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hoyradt had recent guests from Winsted, Conn.

There will be a Halloween party Saturday evening in Smith's Hall. It will be a big affair for children. Everybody promised a good time.

Tuesday evening there was a dance held in Smith's Hall for the benefit of nurse fund. This was a community affair. Music for dancing by Kingston orchestra. The people turned out very good. There is talk of holding a series of dances for a benefit for nurses.

Mrs. Abram Rhodes was hostess Saturday afternoon to W. D. Society. All spent a very pleasant afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker of Grand street entertained a house party recently from Richmond Hill.

Louis Seaman and wife, also Mr. and Mrs. Irving Harcourt, are now spending some time at Sesquicentennial in Philadelphia.

O. E. S. met Tuesday evening. The matron gave report of the work of grand chapter in New York city recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John Goldt have relatives visiting them from Bremen, Germany.

Mrs. Rivenburgh and Mrs. Colger will have charge of Music Study Club at Rivenburgh home. Poughkeepsie for their next meeting.

October 6, two candidates were initiated in D. of A. There was a very large attendance with several guests from Poughkeepsie present. Work was exemplified in a faultless manner. All officers, degree team and staff officers were gowned in white and with their flag bearers and 14 beautiful large silk flags it was an impressive sight.

October 20th was the regular meeting. It was a brief meeting on account of the card party which was largely attended. They have two candidates in waiting. This is an order that is doing its full share in bringing people closer together in the promotion of peace and good will.

Miss Emma Patridge had the misfortune to fall about two weeks ago and sprain her right arm and hand. She is improving as rapidly as can be expected. She is treasurer in the Daughters of America and she is greatly missed. It would be a difficult task to find one to take her place and fill it so perfectly. All hope for her speedy recovery and that she may soon be at her accustomed place for transaction of business.

A card party of the D. of A. on the evening of the 20th was a success both socially and financially. The room was filled with tables and players. Pinochle, the very popular game, was enjoyed, also other games and dominoes. Prizes were awarded the successful players. Martha Clout had charge of the games and her enthusiasm is great, and whatever she sets out to do she never fails in her task. Mrs. Horward, Mrs. Graham, Miss Bertha Disney and Loria Schantz were hosts of committees on tickets, prizes, chairs and refreshments. Take it all in consideration, it will long be remembered.

November 12 is the date for the official board's hot roast beef dinner at the church. Members of the Auxiliary Club and friends are asked to remember.

PROGRAM FOR TONIGHT AT CLINTON AVENUE CHURCH

The fourth session of the Mid-year Institute of the Third Group, Kingston District, Epworth League, will be held at Clinton Avenue M. E. Church this evening. An interesting feature of the program will be an address on the subject of "Citizenship" by Harry H. Flemming, president of the New York Layman's Association. The Rev. D. H. Piper of Kingston will have a class in Bible study at 7 o'clock and the Rev. W. Peckham will have a class in foreign missions at 7:40 o'clock. The Rev. E. J. Reith, dean of the institute, will preside. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock to the institute delegates.

Strange Food

A popular table delicacy in China is "pidan," which is made by preserving fresh ducks' eggs in a paste made from soda, straw ash, table salt, boiling water and slacked lime. The pidan is stored for a month before being used. Experiments have shown that there is as much vitamin A in pidan as in fresh eggs, but vitamin B is entirely destroyed by the process.

Origin of "Farthing"

Early Saxon pennies had four grooves in them so that they could be easily broken. Each section was called a fourthing, the word later being corrupted to farthing.

Do Not Be Deceived by Leaky-Logic or Appeals to Prejudice

An answer to our OUTSIDE AGITATOR for

SUNDAY MOTION PICTURES

Ans. 1.—Bishop Manning sanctions amateur sports and recreations on Sunday, outside of hours of worship and only when worship is not neglected, BUT NOT professional or commercialized amusements.

Ans. 2.—Motion Pictures on Sunday WILL INTRUDE on hours of worship in the majority of Kingston's Churches.

Ans. 3.—"SMASH THE KILLJOYS" is not a REASON but an appeal to prejudice and ignorance. We think too highly of our Kingston folk to believe they can be so influenced. It is an insult to our people's intelligence.

Ans. 4.—The pretended interest in our "young folks" and the "poor man" is plain hypocrisy. LISTEN! and you can almost hear our "young folks's" and our "poor man's" coin jingle in OUR OUTSIDE AGITATOR'S till. That is where the INTEREST LIES.

Will you follow such shallow methods or the judgment of Kingston's best citizenship, whose interest is genuine and unselfish?

NO MORE CONSTIPATION FOR HIM

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran and 100% effective

Mr. Dunbar tried many and mineral waters in vain. Only Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieved him. "I suffered from indigestion and constipation and visited doctors and mineral springs, which only gave temporary relief. Now give permanent relief, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I consider your bran one of the greatest inventions of this age."

Yours sincerely,
L. B. Dunbar, Scarborough, N. C.

Constipation is the bane of health. Over forty diseases may be traced to it. It fills the system with vile poisons and saps strength. You can't afford to ignore its warning signals. Dizziness, bad breath, spots before the eyes, are just a few of the symptoms. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation or your money will be refunded. A delicious cereal, ready to serve. Fine with milk or fruit. Use in cooking too.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan, and sold by grocers everywhere. Served at leading hotels and restaurants.

Will Seek for Dragons

Aviator Says He Saw

New York.—Dragons that blow smoke from their noses and eat a small pony for Sunday dinner, reported to exist on the island of Komodo, off the coast of Australia, will be sought by a party of unarmored Americans, according to word received here from London.

The dragons were reported by Alan Cobham, the British aviator, on his airplane flight from London to Australia.

They were described as terrible creatures, built like giant lizards, some 12 feet long, with long claws and long red tongues, which they flourished in the air just like the ones which St. George killed. They emit a vapor, according to description, like legendary dragons are supposed to have done.

Saves Life of Man in Coils of Giant Python

Los Angeles, Calif.—Wrapped in the coils of a giant python that was slowly crushing the life out of his body, Wilbur Westlake, forty, veteran airplane trainer, was saved from death by the presence of mind of a small boy recently.

As the enraged reptile wound its body tighter around Westlake, the youth sprang from a group of fear-paralyzed onlookers and thrust a stick of wood down the snake's throat.

The struggle took place at the winter quarters of the Al G. Barnes circus near Culver City.

And That's That

New York.—A woman can be just as attractive at forty-five as at twenty-five, in the view of Mrs. Theodore Parsons, author. And no girl should marry before twenty-five.

Bank Bandits Kind to "Grandma" in Holdup

Covington, Ohio.—Four bandits who looted two banks here, maintained a high standard of etiquette toward the aged.

As they forced depositors to the rear of the Covington State bank and scooped up nearly $5,000 in currency, one of the robbers noticed Mrs. Lucy Leroy, seventy, among the victims.

"Did we take any of your money, grandma?" the bandit asked.

Informed he had picked up about $70, representing checks she had cashed, the cashier was ordered to return the checks and honor them later. "Grandma" Leroy was then escorted to a rocking chair in the rear of the bank and told if she kept quiet she would not be locked in the vault with the other customers. She complied.

Modesty in Greatness

As a rule, the more thoroughly disciplined and fit a man may be for any really great work, the more conscious will he be of his own unworthiness for it, the more distrustful of himself, the more anxious not to thrust himself forward.—Thomas Hughes

Pola Negri

Pola Negri's real name is Apollonia Chalepou. She chose the surname because of her great love for the Polish translations of the Italian verses of Ada Negri. Pola was born in Grodno, Poland. She graduated from a dramatic school. She wrote and directed her first picture; also played the leading role, "Love and Passion," she called it. Her many successes are well known. She will soon be seen in her latest picture, "Hotel Imperial."

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At twenty-one Francis Wilson sang and danced in the varieties.

"AT THIS time my partner Macklin, and I originated a new type of song and dance combining we believed, the lightness of execution of two celebrated vaudevillians of the period Dilehanty and Hengler and the clever acrobatics of a dancer named Charles Walters, who was with a company headed by Tony Pastor.

"We two boys practiced acrobatics on the outskirts of Indianapolis laboring diligently to acquire the 'flip flops' and 'neck springs' essential for our performance. We may not have been as skillful acrobats as Kern and Forrest were in their early days, but what we learned was enough. It served.

"For many years Macklin and I were able to command a salary of a hundred and fifty dollars a week each, a princely sum for those days—Francis Wilson."

TODAY—Francis Wilson, at the age of seventy-one, is one of the most celebrated actors in America. He has retired from the stage, but he has left behind him the record of a brilliant career. He was first famous as a player in light opera and then became equally popular as a dramatic artist.

A few years ago he was president of the Actors' Equity association, and his guidance helped to make it the powerful organization it now is. (By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"THE CHAFF FROM THE WHEAT"

TO SEPARATE the chaff from the wheat" is a phrase that is frequently heard in modern speech to express distinguishing between the false and the true, the worthy and the worthless.

Chaff is the straw and other waste in wheat and grains which by threshing and winnowing, are sifted down and removed to purify and prepare the harvest for the process by which it becomes the "staff of life," the bread on our table. The first step is "separating the chaff from the wheat," the refuse from the food kernel.

From the parlance of the farm the term found its way into general speech where the mediator in an argument, in an effort to sift the matter to useless talk and get down to fundamental facts, will sometimes say: "We must separate the chaff from the wheat." (Copyright.)

Hydraulic Stop-Watch

A "hydraulic stop-watch" has been perfected by an Indiana inventor, for use in timing racing cars.

An ordinary three-quarter-inch garden hose is used, says Scientific American Magazine. It is laid across the track at the starting point, connected with a cylinder barrel and both filled with water. When the driver is qualifying on the track the front wheels of his machine pressing upon the hose force the water into the cylinder barrel, which operates a lever, in turn starts a stop watch, and as the driver crosses the hose again it stops the watch.

Tunney and "Buddies" Dine

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Representatives of the Army, Navy and Marines at last have had their chance to have Gene Tunney all to themselves and tell him just what they think of a fighting marine who is heavyweight champion of the world.

At the Hotel Commodore last night 500 of his American Legion "buddies" gave Tunney a suet and roared their approval when Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who made the presentation, declared him a man of fortitude and "a square shooter from the word go." Gene said it was the greatest tribute he had ever received. He then gave Tex Rickard credit for the large press distributed to boxes and suggested that Immensen as the doughboy is so underpaid for his service. Tex should handle the promotion of the next war.

Tomatoes for Market

Some of the choicest tomatoes are now grown on the island of Madeira, and for years the Canary Islands, particularly Tenerife, with its volcanic soil, sent tons of tomatoes to the British market. The Channel Islands are especially adapted to the growth of tomatoes, not only providing supplies for England, but sending their early tomatoes to the United States.

Hasbrouck Lost To Local Eleven

Injuries Will Keep Captain Hasbrouck Out of Yellow Jacket Line-up—Stadium Will Be the Attraction Sunday.

Captain Hasbrouck who started the Yellow Jackets off on their victorious season from his pilot berth is now lost to the eleven. The yellow jacket's leader was injured a month ago in Beacon, injuries to several of his ribs making it advisable for him to retire from actual conflict for a short period. But the injury was of a more serious nature than thought and he will now be out of the game for the season. Ross "Punk" Vogt who has been acting captain since the Beacon game will no doubt lead the eleven through the rest of its season's battles.

Manager Redhead is negotiating with several eleven in order to stage a contest at the Fair Grounds on Thanksgiving Day. The Monongahela Indians of New York City and the Bear Cat A. C. of Troy are the most prominent choices for that date. The booking of either of these teams for Thanksgiving Day will bring about one of the biggest drawing matches of the season as both clubs are of the champion variety. The Indians were the co-coached champs of the gridiron light heavyweight class last year while the Bear Cats have not lost a battle in two years. The R. P. I. pigskin outfit also fell victim to the Bear Cats last season.

Hudson Here Sunday. Practice was held Thursday evening under the armory arlight and another workout is scheduled for tonight on the same grounds. Sunday's battle with Hudson is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock. Hudson will enter the Fair Grounds with several stars of high school days and will no doubt give the Yellow Jackets an opportunity to expend everything they have in speed, power and football knowledge. The Yellow Jackets have scored 92 points this season to their opponents 10, an average of 24 markers a game. The individual scores are: Stan Colvin, 31; Vogt, 31; Hoffman, 12; Rice, 6; McLane, 6; and Scheffel, 6.

IMMANUELS AND YANKS ARE ALLEY VICTORS

Thursday evening another series of games was played on the Immanuel alleys in connection with the league that is being conducted by the men of Immanuel Lutheran Church. During the tournament the Immanuels defeated the Colonials and the Yanks went the Emeralds to the cellar position.

ACE HURDINS MEETS PHIL MCGRAW TONIGHT

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Two slugging battlers from the west, Ace Hurdins, the Nebraska wildcat, and Phil McGraw, of Detroit, crowd eastern fighters from the picture tonight for the staging of their return match in Madison Square Garden. When they met here this summer Hurdins scored a close decision after 15 rounds of terrific battling.

Tonight's engagement, over the 12-round route, will find Hurdins weighing about 140 pounds and McGraw 136, as compared with the last match in which both made the 135 pound mark. Hurdins has been made a favorite in the belief that the extra poundage will increase his strength, although the Detroit Greek is known to be his best over the shorter distance.

Sport Briefs Of All Sorts

(By The Associated Press.)

A professional tennis tournament among American instructors appears feasible to James W. McCombs, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. The plan was broached by George Agutter, coach of the West Side Tennis Club, at Forest Hills, N. Y., who has called for Europe with his assistant, Paul Hosten to play in the French professional championship and gather data to pave the way for international professional competition in America.

Kaute Rockne mixes psychology with his football at Notre Dame and the respect which other teams feel for the Rockne warriors indicates there is something in the system. Every player weighs in and out on practice days and over the face of the scales, covering the numerals, is the bald but powerful slogan:

"Nothing counts but guts."

Over the locker hangs another: "A quitter never wins, a winner never quits."

A case of tonsillitis gave Irish Jimmy Ryan, former lightweight champion of the Atlantic Coast, a fight start in Ireland, when 15 years old. Jimmy's father, two brothers, and a husky neighbor tried to hold him down for a doctor to remove his tonsils. Jimmy whipped the "whole caboodle," he says, and from the experience gained took to pugilism with his tonsils intact. He will carry them into battle against Cowboy Eddie Anderson of Wyoming, at Newark next week.

Gil Dobie, of Cornell, has led football teams to victory in 90 per cent of their games in 20 years of coaching. From 1905 until 1917, Dobie's teams at Minneapolis High, University of Minnesota, North Dakota Agricultural and University of Washington were undefeated. Coming east in 1917 his Navy eleven lost three games in three years. While at Cornell, Dobie gave the Red unbeaten

East Meets West On the Gridiron

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Eastern football eleven were humming over railroad tracks on their way to Saturday conflicts or doubling back on battle-scarred gridirons in preparation for visitors today.

While Pennsylvania and Bucknell were heading westward to meet Illinois and the Haskell Indians in two of the seven intercollegiate games of Saturday, Michigan, Michigan State, Miami, Dayton University, and West Virginia Wesleyan lead a threatening invasion of the east.

Charley Rodgers, Penn.'s sterling halfback made the trip with the team along with the black magic of the hidden ball attack and the elbow pads that are said to look like football helmets. Rodgers, ill from indigestion, has little chance of playing and probably will be replaced by Patster Fields. The Penn. students gave the air game a new angle with a schedule fight from Philadelphia to Urbana in a hired machine.

Cochran Ingram of the Navy, has placed Hoeser at center in the lineup against Michigan in the hope that the newcomer's height will allow him to batter down some of the assaults feared by the Midwestern Colgate rounded out preparations for Michigan State with a line drill.

Sympathy For Disaster Sufferers

Emergency Red Cross Hospital scene in Florida hurricane zone. Oval—Ambassador Matsudaira of Japan who offered Japanese aid to America in the relief of Florida victims.

THE greatest disaster relief problem since the San Francisco earthquake—that is the estimate of the Florida hurricane problem by Chairman John Barton Payne of the American Red Cross. Upwards of 50,000 individuals in dire need constitute the elements of this problem, Red Cross authorities on the scene reported to National Headquarters following a survey.

Few disasters in American history have aroused such world wide interest and sympathy in behalf of people of this country as did the Florida hurricane. It is indicated by the telegrams and cables of sympathy from abroad. Of outstanding interest is the fact that the Japanese Ambassador, in the name of the Japanese people, insisted that the United States accept assistance from them. Chairman Payne has disclosed that just after the disaster Japan, through the American State Department, offered to make a popular appeal to her people for subscriptions to aid the Florida sufferers. The American Red Cross, it was stated, had not thought this step necessary. Subsequently the Japanese Ambassador, in addition to a substantial personal contribution to the relief fund, forwarded 10,000 yen, the equivalent of $5,000, from the Japanese people.

The Cuban Red Cross gave aid, and the Hungarian Red Cross, among others, offered assistance. The American Red Cross, in calling attention to its Tenth Annual Roll Call for membership, from November 11 to 25, points out that its services abroad as well as those at home are an important factor in international friendship.

NOTED ARTISTS COMING FOR ORGAN RECITAL

A concert of interest to the music-lovers of Kingston will be an organ recital to be played by J. George Ribble, American concert organist of this city, in Trinity Methodist Church on Tuesday evening, November 2, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Ribble will have as his assisting artist, Miss Olive Marshall, well-known lyric soprano of New York city. Miss Marshall is an artist of high repute and comes here as a widely-known concert singer. Her personality is most pleasing and charming and always creates a lasting impression on her hearers.

Mr. Ribble hardly needs any introduction to the musical public of Kingston, having built up a fine reputation as one of the coming American-born concert organists of today. He believes in a style of program of the newer and modern organ music which is most fitting to the average audience of today. One critic wrote: "He plays with fire and zeal and with an enthusiasm that is contagious; his interpretation being an example of finished art."

The only successful substitute for brains is silent.

Shock Cures Paralytic

Newark, N. J.—In the middle of a row of mean houses in Bergen street lived Mrs. Lena Tidar, seventy-two, and her seventy-four-year-old husband, Harry, deaf and paralyzed since weeks ago so that he was able only to drag himself, legs flung, from his bed to his kitchen chair.

From a deep slumber at six o'clock one morning the paralytic awoke to peer across the cluttered room and see to his surprise that his wife was lying awkwardly half off the little cot, not yet aroused although the hour for opening the grocery store in the front of the home had passed. Tidar pulled himself across to her body and in the dim light slapped her face gently to awake her in the belief she was asleep. She didn't move. His hand touched her cheek gently, curiously. It was cold.

The paralytic, unable to see his legs until that moment, swung crazily out of the house, shrieking, but walking upright for the first time in two weeks. He climbed the long outside stairs to the flat of Mrs. William H. Sterenson. There the woman found him, half an hour later, still standing upright and pounding vigorously.

Electrocution Threatens

Extinction of Swallows

Berlin.—The swallows, so dear to the hearts of the German people that countless songs and poems have been dedicated to them, are reported to be on the verge of extinction.

The birds are being electrocuted by the thousands at "Swallows' Pass" in the Alps, which in recent years has been spanned by high-tension electric lines from the power plants of Lake Como. On their flights to and from North Africa the swallows rest on the wires, and in fluttering about in flocks frequently form a wing connection of two wires at the same time. Thousands of dead birds have been found in the caverns below.

Negro at Large After Shooting

Colored Youth Accused of Peppering East Kingston Couple With Shot-gun—Officers Search Woods at Night.

Cleveland Jones is being sought by the sheriff and State Troopers following a shooting Thursday afternoon at Ulster Landing. All night Thursday and until early this morning the sheriff's deputies, State Troopers and local constables searched the shacks, ice houses and woods in the vicinity of East Kingston for the man who it is said still carries the gun with which he did the shooting.

According to the statements made by persons questioned, Jones picked an argument with Millard Wentworth. The argument grew heated and Jones, a colorful youth, decided to end it with the shot-gun which he possessed. Wentworth, however, succeeded in taking the gun away, only to have Jones leave the Wentworth place and return later with another gun which he fired at Wentworth. The charge of shot took effect in Wentworth's head and shoulders and a few of the scattered shots injured Mrs. Wentworth. Jones then left for parts unknown taking along the gun. When last seen he was headed toward the woods toting the gun.

The Wentworths were taken to the Benedictine Hospital where, after shots were picked from Mrs. Wentworth's person she was able to return home. Her husband, however, was well peppered with shots and he remained in the hospital.

Sheriff Wells was notified of the shooting and with Deputies Jocelyn, Evers and Gaynor went to the scene and began a search for the missing colored man. Deputy Sheriff Halwick and State Troopers under Sergeant Cunningham joined in the search which was continued until 4 o'clock this morning when it was abandoned until later in the morning, when a more thorough search was taken up.

Jones is described as a man about 22 years old. When last seen was wearing gray trousers, a brown sweater and a lumber-jacket.

Shovel Killed George Wagner. George Wagner, 50 years old, died in Catskill on Thursday of injuries sustained two hours before in an accident at the North American Cement Company there. A verdict of accidental death was rendered by Coroner W. C. Brady. Wagner was working on a construction job and a clam shell steam shovel fell and enveloped the workman, crushing him.

Bank Robber Killed. Detroit, Oct. 29 (AP)—One bank robber was shot to death and another wounded today when a patrolman thwarted their attempt to rob a bank of Detroit branch.

Masonic Club Dance. The Masonic Club will hold a Malloveen dance this evening at the rooms with music by Zee's orchestra.

Dance at West Park. There will be a dance at West Park this evening in Odd Fellows Hall. Pardee and Allen will furnish the music.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

London—Here's the straight dope on Mars, sent by his lady friend there to one Dr. Robinson, telepathist, in response to a radio message he paid 72 cents to send: The Martians are over seven feet tall and have almond eyes, they use tobacco and tea; and their speedy automobiles hop, skip and jump.

New York—Miss Alma Clayburgh, former opera singer, has for exhibits in case of litigation with her husband some soiled silk stockings. She insists she found herself right in the middle of Broadway in her stocking feet after three husky men hustled her out of her husband's business office when she was trying to discuss expenses. She finds it impossible to live on the $15,000 a year the courts allowed her.

Philadelphia—Miss Elinor Dorrance, 18-year-old heiress, is punching the time clock at 8:30 every morning, the same as other employees of her father's company, which makes Campbell's soups. Tired of social life, she wants a business career. She is in the capricious department. She will inherit many millions, having no brothers or sisters.

Newark, N. J.—Having sold things in a department store for 33 years and received $5,000 from her employers upon retiring, Miss Elizabeth L. Gray is now going to live in Los Angeles.

New York—The fashion in Berlin is bobbed hair by day and long tresses at night if Anthony Weller of Syracuse got things straight at a hair dresser's convention there. As a result those with long hair wear bobbed wigs by day and bobs wear long wigs at night.

Wife Loses Husband Over Delayed Message

New York—Because a telegram was delivered an hour later than the sender expected, a young mother has been separated from her husband, and though both are in New York city neither knows where to find the other.

A month ago Louis Bristol, twenty-four, bade his wife and two-year-old boy good-by and boarded a train in Toronto for Thompsonville, N. Y., where he had learned there was work for an experienced waiter. Two weeks later he wrote to his wife, telling her he was making a fair salary and enclosing money for her and the child to join him.

She left Toronto the next day and arrived in Thompsonville, only to learn her husband had left for this city. That evening a telegram the husband had sent to her at Toronto telling her not to come, as he had obtained a better job in New York city, was forwarded to her. It had been delivered in Toronto an hour after the train departed.

It did not tell where he was to work or where he was to live.

Lasso Captures Nude Rider in California

Martine, Calif.—The dexterous toss of a lariat has resulted in the capture of Arthur Rogers, "the nude horseman of the Tassajara foothills."

Residents of the countryside around Mount Diablo were greatly perturbed when they noticed a nude horseman galloping down the road. It later developed that Rogers, apparently deranged, had escaped from his two brothers and a doctor in a fierce struggle in which his clothing was torn off.

He was tracked to a rocky ravine near here and was lassoed by a cowboy as he emerged from a cave. He was ordered committed to an insane asylum.

Woman, Tongue Cut Out, Cannot Tell Who Did It

Nice, France.—Released from jail after serving a sentence for talking about her neighbors, Mme. Jacques, a Belgian woman, staggered into the police station in this city. She was bleeding from the mouth. Her tongue had been cut out.

Investigation of the crime promises difficulties. Because she can neither read nor write the woman is unable to name her assailants.

Muscle Has Red Cells

The muscles of the human body, it has recently been discovered, are filled with a red coloring substance almost identical with that in the red blood cells of the blood. The amount of this red substance seems to determine largely the power of the muscle, and it disappears rapidly if the muscle is paralyzed, thus showing the importance of exercising in keeping the muscles in trim.

Subject Changed

We fell into conversation with a bright looking boy the other day. Almost every sentence he spoke was prefaced by the question "Don't you remember?" "What was I supposed to say?" "I don't know." "But if you don't like me I won't say any more," said the boy. "I'll say 'good-bye' instead." We changed the subject.—Louisiana Journal.

Both Gonna Wrong

A mother and daughter were talking to a band concert in the park. "What's this they're playing, Mary?" said the mother. "It sounds to me like Wagner." "No," remarked Mary. "I don't think it's Wagner. I think it's Mozart. I'll just go and see." On her return from the bandstand, she said: "We were both wrong. It says 'The Band From Spitting'."

THIS IS THE CONDITION:
"East Side, West Side, All Around The Town."

How the U. S. Trucking Corporation of which Governor Smith was president protected the people on "The Sidewalks of New York" at 42nd street near Fifth avenue, by holding stand over the heads of thousands of people without safeguarding their lives by means of a bridge as required by law.

PORT EWEEN.

Port Eween, Oct. 25.—The chicken supper served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church Wednesday evening in connection with their fair and bazaar, was a grand success. There was a large attendance. The entertainment given by out of town talent was very much enjoyed.

An entertainment will be held in the assembly room of the Methodist Church Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The program has been announced. Home made ice cream will be on sale. Everyone is invited to be present. Proceeds for the benefit of the Eween League.

People from out of town are looking for real estate in this place. Mrs. Roy Maxwell of Salem street, who has been ill, is improving. Voters are receiving letters from candidates for election.

New York D. A. R. Names Officers

Nomination of officers to be elected Friday were submitted by the nominating committee at the second day's session of the New York State Conference, National Society, D. A. R., meeting at Elmira on Thursday. Nominations were:

State custodian, Mrs. John Miller Horton, of Buffalo; state directors, Mrs. Jacob P. Marshall, New York city; Mrs. Charles J. Reeder, Carthage, and Mrs. Abraham D. Smith, Newark, N. Y. The name of Mrs. Fisher M. Jowlin of Voorheesville, was offered in opposition to Mrs. Horton. The name of Mrs. John P. Mosher of Rochester, state director of the Children of the American Revolution, was submitted from the floor for the office of vice-president general.

The report of Mrs. Samuel J. Kramer of Pelham, state regent, showed the formation of chapters at Scarsdale, Freeport and Vernon in the last year. Other state officers gave reports.

Novel Insurance Scheme

Mrs. Karin Michaelis, a Danish-American writer, has suggested that every girl child should be insured from birth against divorce or spinsterhood after becoming forty-five years old. Her father would pay the premium until his daughter married, when her husband would keep up the payments, under Mrs. Michaelis' plan. If the couple remained married the husband would benefit from the annuity his wife receives after celebrating their silver wedding anniversary, and the single woman would begin drawing her annuity when forty-five. If the married couple parted the wife immediately would begin drawing her annuity.
